2. PROGRAMME THEME

Respect for human rights in everyday operation is increasingly imperative across different sectors. New human rights due diligence regulations, investor interest in the detailed working of human rights programs, and customer demands for transparency all make human rights a priority. Because of changing regulations and compliances around human rights, Organisations need to continuously review and advance human rights policies, processes, effectiveness, and impact. The program will cover human rights based on UN Guiding Principles(UNGPs) and National Guidelines on Responsible Business Conduct (NGRBC) released by the Ministry of Corporate Affairs (MCA), Government of India. Human rights laws encompass specific standards for women (prevention of sexual harassment), children (prevention of child labor), persons with disabilities, minorities and other vulnerable groups, who now possess rights that protect them from discrimination that had long been common in many societies.

Bribery especially refers to offering, giving, soliciting, or receiving of any item of value as means of influencing the actions of an individual holding a public or legal duty. The legal definition of bribery is to give a gift to someone with the intention of influencing the actions of the recipient who has a legal or public duty. Bribery is conserved a crime under the Foreign Corrupt Practices Act. Attempted bribery and successful bribery are usually punished the same under the law. It is indicated that the ways to Prevent Bribery and corruption in the Workplace include initiatives such as:-
