About the Training:

Food Safety and Standards Authority of India (FSSAI) is a statutory body under Food Safety and Standards Act, 2006. The Food Safety and Standards Act (FSS), 2006 is the primary law for the regulation of food products. This act also sets up the formulation and enforcement of food safety standards in India.

FSSAI has notified Food Safety and Standards (Labelling and Display) Regulations, 2020, prescribing the Labelling requirements of pre-packaged foods and display of essential information on premises where food is manufactured, processed, served and stored. The Regulations are in suppression of Food Safety and Standards (Packaging and Labelling) Regulations, 2011 and Food Business Operators (FBOs) must comply with all the provisions of the Regulations after one year from the date of Official Gazette publication. However, Chapter-3 regarding Display of information in food service establishments should be complied with latest by 1st January, 2022.

As labels being the main link of communication between manufacturers and consumers, these Regulations are having consumer friendly orientation and is certainly aimed at giving sufficient information to the consumers to make informed and healthy choices promoting good eating habits. The new regulations emphasise on enabling consumers to make informed choices about their food purchases not only in the sphere of packaged food products but also on purchases from restaurants and e-commerce platforms. The FSSAI has reconciled its Labelling Laws with that in the Legal Metrology (Packaged Commodities) Rules which operate in general domain of packaged products avoiding any room for ambiguity.
